Dear Parents,

Thank you for downloading this colouring book and for taking the time to share it with your child.

We believe that learning to care for, respect, and love animals begins at a very young age. Children are not born knowing how to treat animals; they learn through guidance, observation, and the examples set by the adults around them. When kindness and empathy are encouraged early, children begin to understand that dogs, cats, and other animals are living beings that can feel fear, pain, comfort, trust, and love.

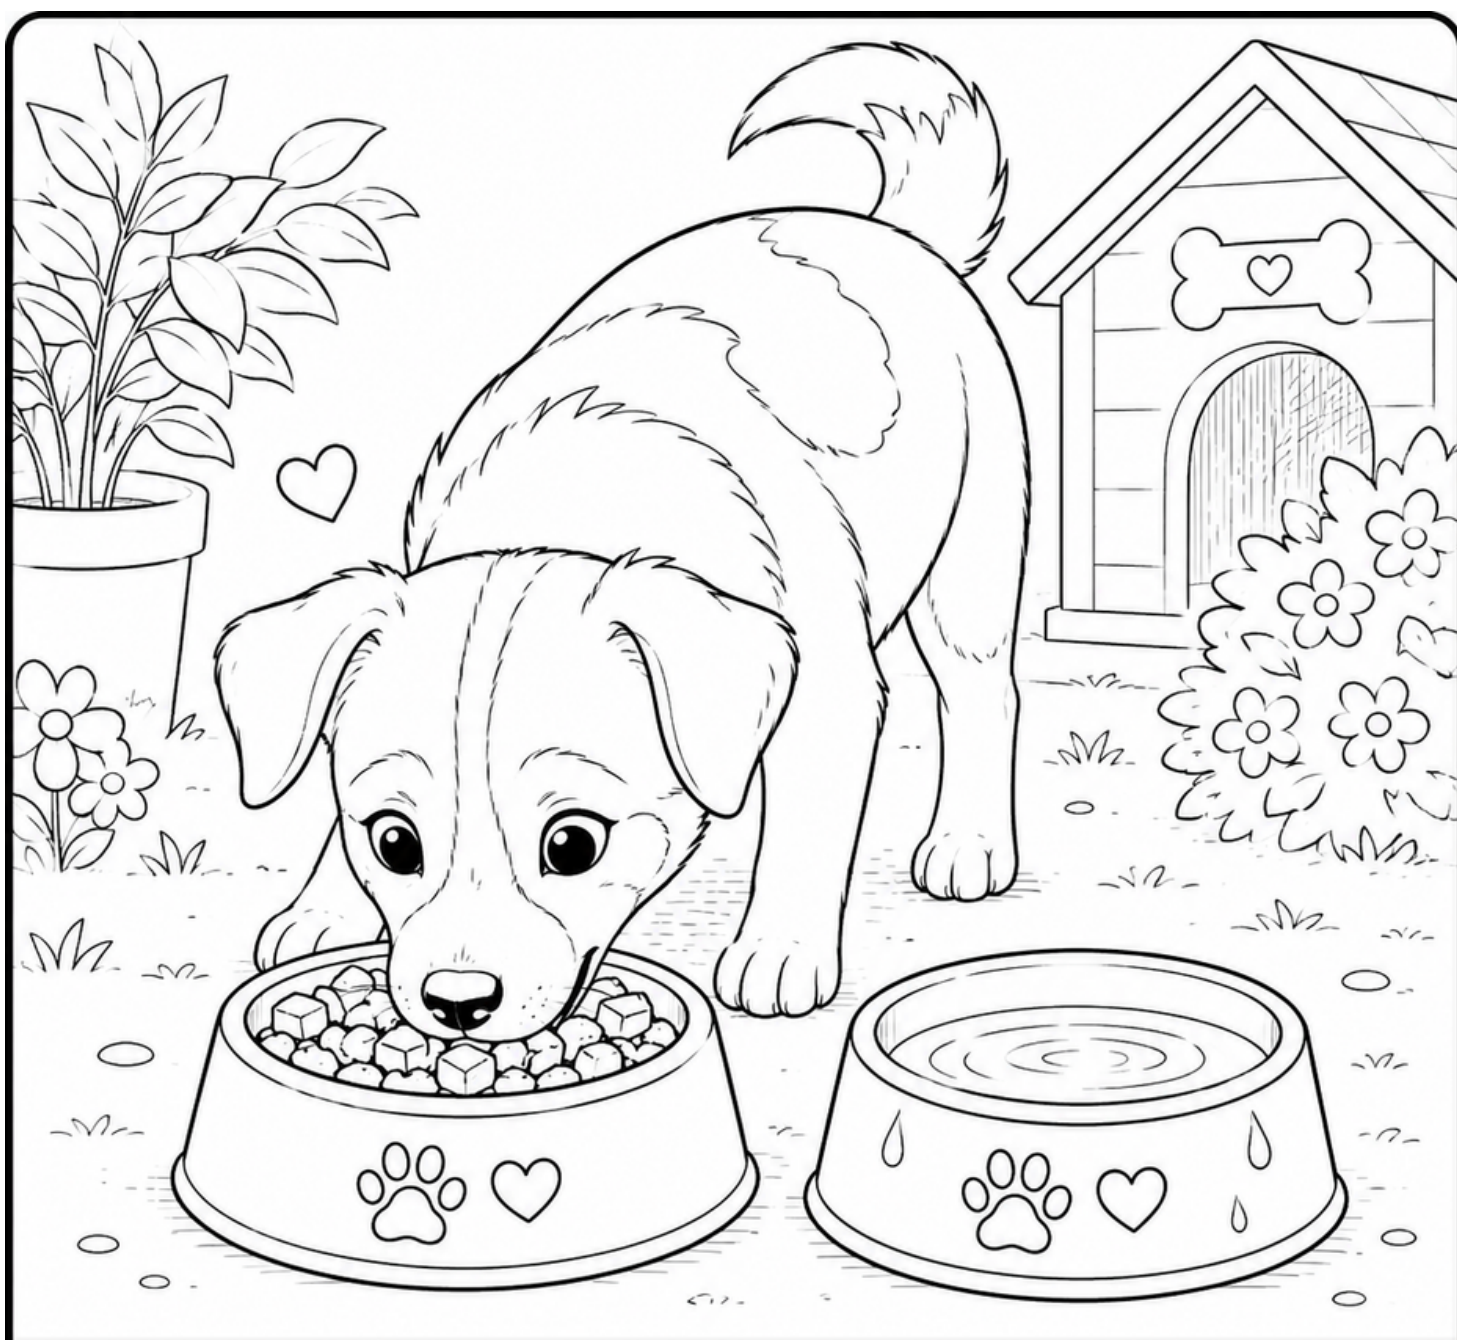

When this guidance is missing, children may grow up without fully understanding how their actions can affect another living being. What may begin as teasing, rough handling, neglect, or treating an animal like a toy can develop into a serious lack of empathy and respect for life.

This book was created to encourage simple but important values: gentle hands, responsible care, compassion, patience, protection, and speaking up when an animal needs help. Through colouring and conversation, we hope parents can use each page as an opportunity to explain why animals deserve kindness and why cruelty should never be considered normal or acceptable.

This book is created in memory of Wang Wang and all animals who have suffered abuse, neglect, abandonment, or cruelty. May their stories remind us that education can make a difference, and that raising compassionate children is one of the most powerful ways we can help create a kinder future.

Please colour these pages together, talk about the lessons, ask your child questions, and most importantly, show them through your own actions what kindness to animals looks like.

Kindness taught today can protect a life tomorrow.

Every animal deserves
healthy food, clean water,
and loving care every day.

Kindness matters,
even to animals without a home.

Every animal deserves
a safe place to rest and feel loved.

Feed them with love,
and they will trust you forever.

Gentle hands
make animals feel safe.

Be a responsible pet owner.
Their happiness is in your hands.
Respect them, care for them,
and keep our world clean.

Kindness doesn't need to be big.
Small acts can change a life.

When an animal is hurt,
get help. Never ignore their pain.

Protect animals when you take them outside.

A mother's love is pure and selfless.
Respect and protect every mother and her babies.

Share Your Child's Kindness

We would love to see your child's beautiful work! If you are comfortable doing so, you are welcome to share photos of the colouring pages your child has completed on TikTok and tag us at @wangwang.co1.

Seeing children from different parts of the world learning about kindness, compassion, and respect for animals would mean so much to us. Your child's artwork may also help inspire another family to begin teaching these important values.

For your child's privacy and safety, there is no need to include your child's face, name, school, or any personal information—a photo of their beautifully coloured page is more than enough.

Every coloured page carries a little message: animals deserve kindness too. ❤️🐶🐱
